WHY?
Following disasters if you cannot call or drive home, how will you know if your loved ones are safe? The local telephone lines will be overwhelmed with 9-1-1 calls and there may be widespread damage to roads, overpasses, and bridges.

IT’S EASY!
Choose a friend or family member who lives at least 100 miles away. Everyone calls this person to report in and to find out how others are doing. Everyone keeps a card in their wallet, purse, or backpack to help them remember who to call.

FOLLOWING DISASTERS:
Call your Out-of-Area Contact person. Only call 9-1-1 if it is a life-threatening situation.

TEXT MESSAGING:
Text messaging on your cell phone is a viable alternative to calling an out-of-area contact! This system is very robust during times of disaster. Text your loved ones to let them know where and how you are. Keep your message short.
