SUMMARY OF DUTIES

This position is initially designed to help set up a new Contingency Response Squadron for the 141 ARW, attend all required training IAW AFI 10-202, and meet Initial Operational Capacity by FY2028. Responsibilities include establishing, maintaining, and operating robust and reliable C2 systems (SATCOM, HF, VHF, UHF) and communication networks (routers, switches, firewalls) in austere and dynamic environments. This position requires a highly skilled and adaptable individual capable of rapidly deploying, configuring, and troubleshooting a wide range of communication and information systems to enable effective command and control of CRS operations. Coordinate with external agencies and organizations to ensure interoperability of communication systems. Participate in exercises and deployments to test and validate C2 capabilities. Operate and maintain power generation equipment.

ELEMENTS

The following elements are considered essential for successful performance in this position. Response to the Elements is voluntary, however written response to each of the following Elements will ensure that specialized experience is recognized.

- In-depth knowledge of communication principles, networking protocols, and security concepts.
- Proficiency in configuring and troubleshooting satellite communication systems
- Experience with radio communication systems
- Ability to work independently and as part of a team
- Willingness to deploy to austere locations worldwide on short notice
